Celebrating our past to build a stronger future

Before there was tolerance there was intolerance—and it happened here.

From the late 1960s to early 1980s, The St Charles Tavern—located on the site of present day IMMIX—was one of Toronto’s most notable gay bars. It was famous for its Halloween drag shows, which drew crowds of onlookers as performers and patrons entered the bar. During the mid 1970s, tensions flared. The crowd heckled and threw eggs and the threat of physical assault was real.

The mix of enthusiastic patrons and on-lookers with violent protesters resulted in the alliance of LGBTQ activists, supportive politicians and local businesses in taking initial steps to combat homophobia.

These events, which occurred beneath the sites clock tower, are regarded as milestones in the recognition of the diversity and contributions of LGBTQ culture in Toronto.

Digital innovation

Digital Innovation is at the forefront of QuadReal’s day-to-day. The company creates truly Digital Buildings, leveraging advanced technologies to enable differentiated user experiences in a user-centric environment. By taking a strategic digital approach to QuadReal buildings, a unique “curb-to-suite” experience is created for all tenants.

These buildings feature modernized systems and services, delivering enhanced connectivity, productivity, efficiency, security, sustainability, and wellness for all building occupants. The goal is to utilize digital platforms to optimize operations, while offering a experiences tailored to suit individual needs – bridging physical spaces and digital platforms.

QuadReal has developed a Digital Building approach that is designed to deliver value to all tenants and their employees – making their spaces truly unique. The company connects base-building and property services to tenant spaces, and ultimately directly into the hands of employees via web and mobile applications – utilizing Integrated Operations Management platforms and the QuadReal+ Mobile App for tenants to connect to our buildings.

Our commitment to net zero

At QuadReal we’re committed to leadership in sustainability on a global scale, and right here at home in Canada.

We’ve set ambitious targets to reduce water, waste, energy and carbon emissions - rigorously tracking our progress using real scientific data. But we know we can do more. That’s why we’re working to cut 100% of our operation’s carbon footprint by 2050. It’s part of our pledge to build better communities, places that aren’t just good for our customers’ wellbeing but for the entire planet.
